About Us

www.activeset.org

U.S. EPA Honors ActiveSET.org

"These awards recognize individuals and organizations that have developed innovative projects and creative programs to help us achieve our goal of cleaner air for all Americans."

- U.S. EPA Administrator, Governor Christine Todd Whitman

ActiveSET.org is devoted to providing an interactive reference site for industrial air pollution testing and control. Our objective is to provide a user-friendly site for visitors to easily research and find EPA test methods, stack testing firms, regulatory agencies and related services and products. We provide hundreds of web pages to a worldwide audience 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, 365 days a year.

ActiveSET.org Is A Free Reference Site

There are no registration requirements nor membership fees for the public to use the free resources on this website.

ActiveSET.org visitors have enjoyed free, unlimited access to use the invaluable resources, Directories and reference sections with no membership fees nor registration requirements since the site was first published to the Internet August 2000.

Our hard work and dedication keeping ActiveSET.org secure, reliable, updated, informative and credible at no cost for the public to use has proven outstanding success. ActiveSET.org received The U.S. EPA "Clean Air Excellence Award" in 2003 for "outstanding, innovative efforts in improving air quality through Education/Outreach". The U.S. EPA award ceremony in Washington D.C. was highlighted by keynote speaker Governor Christine Todd Whitman, EPA Administrator.
